POCKET GARDEN OF 4-LEAF CLOVER ~ #BO-B204

History of the four-leaf clover is uncertain, but it's been held throughout the ages as being a symbol of good luck. From the earliest days of this earth, in the Garden of Eden, legend claims that Eve carried a four-leaf clover out of the Garden of Eden. From those days, through the days of the Druids, through the earliest days of Christianity, and still today, the legend lives on.
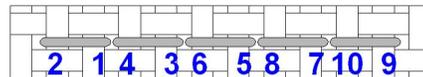

According to Irish tradition, the leaves of the three-leaf clover represent the Holy Trinity – the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost. When a four-leaf clover is found, the fourth leaf is believed to represent God's Grace.

So why the four-leaf clover? Tuck it in your book, and carry the good luck which follows it. It never hurts to believe!

Blackwork is historically done in black thread. In today's world where we have the full range of colors, as well as the hand-dyed and variegated threads, there are countless possibilities for your project.

Do your blackwork piece in all 1 thread, or use multiple colors for the various parts of it - that's your own choice! Customize it with color as you wish.

Also, there's no set rule as to the number of strands or thickness of thread you need to use. Try out a couple of options on a sample piece of your chosen fabric - you decide how fine or how bold you want the stitching to be. Use a combination by using 2 strands for the borders of your sampler areas, with 1 strand for the fills themselves.
